Bride Confesses Killing Father

Dramatic climax ended the coroner's inquest into the death of Robert Beauchamp, Gilroy, Calif., rancher. Several witnesses testified to circumstances indicating suicide. His daughter, Bernice Pickrell, below, 19, a bride, was called to the stand and declared she killed her father when he made improper advances. She is held on a murder charge.

VALERA WANTS FREE STATE IN EMPIRE AGAIN

Observers Report Efforts to Open Negotiations of Amity

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—A Dublin cable from the British Empire, which would keep Ireland under the British Empire, while retaining independence, would enter into an association with the British Commonwealth of Nations, acknowledging the King as the head of the Commonwealth.

It is stated that a majority in the Free State cabinet have made several journeys between Dublin and London.

At the time the Anglo-Irish treaty was negotiated by Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins put forward the basis of a proposed settlement known as Document Two, under which Ireland, while retaining independence, would enter into an association with the British Commonwealth of Nations, acknowledging the King as the head of the Commonwealth.

YANKEE WINS YACHT TRIAL

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 24.—The long Yankee of Boston today crossed the finish line one minute and 11 seconds ahead of Frederick Prince's Westmore in a 30-mile windward-leeward race to select a defender for the America's Cup in an international series of races with the British challenger, Endeavour.

Rich Strike Is Made 140 Miles From Chipewyan

Big Rush to Stake Claims at Spot 140 Miles Up Lake Athabasca—All Available Boats Are Snapped Up

PORT CHIPEWYAN, Alta., Aug. 24.—This frontier outpost of civilization is practically deserted today as every available man has taken to the water in a mad rush to stake claims at the scene of the recent rich gold discovery 140 miles up Lake Athabasca.

Latest arrivals here from the scene of the strike, Jerry Murphy and Lewis McDougall, who spent over a week staking claims for large gold mining corporations they represent, confirmed the richness of the new gold-field.

There is no mistake about it, it is a real mine," said Murphy, who showed others which go to value of $150 a ton. The discovery was made by Gus Nelman, a trapper, who turned his samples and claims over to a representative of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., named Tom Box. This latter company also holds a large area of claims Box staking in their name some years ago.

When news of the strike reached the gold seekers, every available boat and canoe here has been snapped up and the majority of the men are now on their way up the lake.

Transportation is the big problem for the gold seekers. Every available boat and canoe here has been snapped up and the majority of the men are now on their way up the lake.

Practically every man in this district who can get away has joined the gold-rush and rumors of the rich strike.

Child Is Returned To Mama

Following a separation of many months Ben Hunter is reunited with his 2½-year-old daughter, Mrs. Clara Grues of North Bergen, N.J., as seen for the child's husband, Phil. Authorities finally obtained a writ to return the true-life "Little Miss Marker."

QUICK ACTION TO SAVE CASH WON IN SWEEP

Relative of Mrs. Hazel Hainstock Files Information

Quick action was taken in the way of legal steps to save from outside parties the windfall of $16,197 which Mrs. Hazel Hainstock of Edmonton won Thursday in the sweep conducted by the Dominion of Canada Raffle association, when an informer's writ was filed by the legal firm of Van Allen and Clement in supreme court. Friday under the provisions of section 23 of the Criminal Code of Canada.

He declared that until such time as the provinces consented to draft a bill, the situation there was little use of any individual province action.

His action is contemplated by his wife, Mrs. N. A. Hainstock of this city in the D.R.A. Sweepstakes, according to Hon. J. F. Lyburn, C.R. attorney general.

T.W. HIGGINSON HELD IN CELLS FOR SHOOTING ALMA ARMSTRONG IN NECK FRIDAY

On the eve of her contemplated wedding, Miss Alma Armstrong, 21-year-old Pigeon Lake girl, is dead, the victim of a .44 army service revolver bullet wound in the neck, and Thomas W. "Tommy" Higginson, 45-year-old insurance salesman at 12006 87 street, is locked in city police cells charged with murdering following a rendezvous at the latter's home late Friday afternoon.

The girl was rushed to the Royal Alexandra hospital shortly after the shooting when police received a telephone call and an excited voice announced: "A young girl has shot herself at 12006 87 street."

She died early Saturday morning after having received blood transfusions.

Watson and Stevenson raced out to find Alma Armstrong lying bleeding from the mouth on the upstairs bedroom floor of Higginson's home. "Tommy," as he was known by his buddies of the 49th Battalion, was racing around, up and down stairs in a frantic condition, according to detective Watson.

A motive for either suicide or murder had not been uncovered by city police early this morning.

Detective John Watson and Detective Clerk Alex Stevenson were alone in the plainclothes department when the phone rang, a few minutes before 5 p.m.

Although he declined to disclose the contents of her statement, which ran to about 50 words, until Saturday morning, Detective McDonald said:

"The girl was in a bad way," related the detective, "and I was afraid that she would die right there on our hands. I bent over to ask her a question and her mumbled reply was that she did not wish to be bothered. I rang for an ambulance and Detective Bill McDonald, the Coroner's officer."

The gun from which the bullet came was lying beside the girl.

Detective McDonald rushed up to the hospital with Constable Alex Keating and interviewed the victim.

Although he declined to disclose the contents of her statement, which ran to about 50 words, until Saturday morning, Detective McDonald said:

"Mr. Higginson was arrested on the charge of attempted murder following a short investigation and the contents of Miss Armstrong's statement."

From other sources it was learned that Miss Armstrong had stated before police interviewed her that "Tommy shot me."

Warned that anything he might say would be used against him, Higginson told police that he had returned from Sanguine Friday afternoon leaving his wife there with her people whom she had been visiting. He picked up Miss Armstrong, a former acquaintance, at the house of a friend and proceeded to his residence on 87 street.

Later on going out to start his car he heard a shot ring out in the house and ran in to find Miss Armstrong lying bleeding on the bedroom floor. He picked up the girl immediately and, after two unsuccessful calls, succeeded in getting Dr. T. H. Field.

When questioned on the girl's statement as to whether she had said "Tommy shot me," Detective William McDonald stated that it was "something to that effect."

With chances of life admitted by authority authorities to be very slim, the Coroner's Officer and Magistrate Col. George B. McLeod were ready Friday night at a moment's notice to rush to the Royal Alexandra to take an antemortem statement from the girl.

Miss Armstrong told police that she was to be married Saturday, but her boyfriend, Steve Ant, grocery store clerk, claimed ignorance of the impending nuptials.

"I had known her less than two weeks," he said after returning from the hospital where he was refused admittance to his girl-friend's room.

Loss of blood by the girl was severe, two pillows being saturated in the rapid trip from the north end of the city to the hospital. A resident of Pigeon Lake, where she lives with her family, she came to the city two weeks ago and has been staying with her sister, Jessie Armstrong, a cafe waitress.

Uniform Labor Laws Strategy of Tory Leaders

RIGHT TO PETITION AUTOUPHELD BY DENVER JUDGE

Article V. By C. NORMAN SENIOR

Now can Prime Minister Bennett hope to save his discredited administration and the Conservative party from defeat by raising a constitutional issue?

The constitution is dry and dust. Questions affecting the constitution are very interesting to many old lawyers, but how are the man in the street, the small business man, the working man, the unemployed man, to be enticed over such an issue?

The answer is that this is no ordinary constitutional problem. It is a subject that affects the livelihood of every man, woman and child in Canada.

It is a real "bread and butter" issue. British Columbia is particularly able to appreciate its significance.

Mr. George Pearson has been doing his best to make the minimum wages and cutting down the cost of living in British Columbia industries. That is what we all want in theory. But what is the practical result?

Rise in costs. Take the coming industry. Raise the wages and limit the working hours in the B. C. Canine industry. The industry finds that cheaper goods from Quebec make it practically impossible to effect an advance in price.

The minimum wage laws of Quebec, if any, are much less strict than those of British Columbia.

GEORGINA BANDIT ROBBED BANK

ROME, Ga., Aug. 24.—Crowding a National City bank car off the highway, two armed bandits today held up a $40,000 carload of the Publix Chattahoochee Mill which the car was transporting to the mill.

The bandits were slightly hurt in the struggle and was given medical attention. The looting appeared to have cooled the ardor of the pickets and the situation remained quiet.

When questioned on the girl's statement as to whether she had said "Tommy shot me," Detective William McDonald stated that it was "something to that effect."

A PERTINENT QUESTION

Pointing out that the C.C.F. manifesto calls for the socialization of all our financial machinery, an esteemed reader wants to know "where the Liberal Party really stands on banking and monetary reform."

Such a question is provocative. It calls for a direct answer. A direct answer is easily given. The leader of the Liberal party in this province, Hon. T. M. D'Alry, has placed himself on record in very clear terms on the subject.

Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King opposed the "state-owned" bank in the 1920s. He was then in Canada and supported a resolution that the central bank "should be government-owned and controlled." That makes his position as leader of the Liberal Party in the federal parliament very clear on the subject.

He did more than give tacit support to the resolution. He delivered a carefully prepared speech on the question in which he discussed the question of the sovereign right of Parliament to control currency and credit for the public welfare. He said:

"Once a nation parts with the control of its currency and credit, it matters not who makes the nation's laws. Unlawful, once in control, will be the law of the land."

"Until the control of the issue of currency and credit is restored to the government, and recognized as such by the responsible authorities, all talk of the sovereignty of Parliament and Democracy is futile."

In a striking phrase Mr. King declared that Liberalism stands for the issue and control of currency and credit "in terms of public good, not possible private gain." He had previously made a statement of policy to the House in which he said:

"The Liberal Party believes that credit is a public matter, not one to be handed over to private hands."

It stands for the immediate establishment of a properly constituted national bank to perform the functions of reductant and the control of currency issue in terms of public need.

"A central bank is necessary to determine the supply of currency in relation to the domestic needs of the country, and the requirements of the Canadian people and also to deal with the problems of international commerce and exchange."

Perhaps the most pertinent statements of the leader of the Liberal Party, made in the House of Commons, will meet the request for a clear statement of "where the Liberal Party really stands on banking and monetary reform."

STUDY OF THREE LEADERS

It is interesting to compare the differing attitudes of the three parties on the question of banking and credit. Each of the three is clear and distinct. They reflect the mental and moral outlook of the three leaders, each fervent in support of his stand.

Premier Bennett and his position can be dismissed in a sentence. The Premier is a strong individualist and a fervent supporter of private enterprise. He believes that issues of currency should be limited to maintain the high value of the dollar, and that private banks are better for this purpose than the government. He believes that money can be made from time to time. Hence he has placed the control of the central bank in private hands. He thoroughly believes in private ownership with the same burning intensity that he believes in relief camps and a 20 cent day rate for its inhabitants—when they are not.

Mr. Woodsworth is at the other extreme. A visionary who once had his hopes set on a kingdom of Heaven on earth, he has since given up clerical life, devoted himself with religious intensity to bringing about a Kingdom of Heaven on earth. He wants to eliminate private profit and private ownership root and branch. He and the party he has created, aim to take over all the industries, railways, power plants and private banks in Canada. They have set themselves an idealistic program that may take a quarter century of education and a new generation to bring to fruition. They will consider no compromise short of this.

Mr. King and the Liberal Party take a position between the two extremes. Mr. King, Mr. Woodsworth and the C.C.F. have set themselves the task of abolishing all private profit and private ownership root and branch. They permit the chartered banks to carry on merchant banking but would have a publicly-owned and controlled central bank to act as bankers for the governments of Canada, set

Interest and discount rates and control the volume of currency in circulation. There you have the three leaders and their differing policies on monetary control—Mr. Bennett the fervent supporter of private enterprise rights, sounding out the doctrine of the "sanctity of contracts"—Mr. Woodsworth the idealist with his eyes on the distant future, and Mr. King the practical reformer pushing the lever over as far as public opinion will permit today.

In terms of time one might describe Mr. Bennett as the man of the moment (or of the dying past). Mr. Woodsworth as the man of a quarter century hence, and Mr. King as the man of tomorrow. One wants to retain things as they are. The other extreme wants to organize a new Jerusalem. Mr. King wants to do something else now—wherever the next federal election occurs.

The rich men of Canada don't need any advice on who to support. Out here in the west, with relief camps, low farm prices, curtailed currency, high interest rates and refusal of credit, the choice when it will be made, is not agitating for something to happen long after we are dead, or reaching out our hands to get practical reform of the monetary system when a new government is returned to power within the next twelve months.

Forty Years Ago

From the Files of The Edmonton Bulletin

John O'Connor is the promoter of a company that will make tests at Winnipeg in hope of finding natural gas. The party now hoping for petroleum at Athabasca Landing will be engaged to sink wells when the present work has been completed.

Two hundred and twenty-four papers were sent to the high commissioner in London by request of the government of Great Britain, for Hon. T. M. D'Alry for the best essay on the resources of Manitoba and the North-Western Territory.

At the recent promotion examinations a Moose Jaw child answered thus to the question, "Sketch the life of Sir John Macdonald?" "Sir John was the first governor general of Canada; he died in 1882 at the battle of Cupar, fighting against Montcalm, an Indian chief who was killed by the British."

Bears are very plentiful just now along the Athabasca, feeding on the raspberries on the banks along the river. R. Scott said a four hundred pound bear was seen near the mouth of the river in the Cypress Hills where Indian traditions say there are immense deposits of gold to be found.

Dr. J. G. Calder of Medicine Hat proposes to make an exploration trip in the course of which he will reach the Battle Creek from its mouth to the source in the Cypress Hills where Indian traditions say there are immense deposits of gold to be found.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

J. A. McDougall has had constructed a small pleasure steamer to run on the river. The steamer will be named the Kikewa and will be used for the C.P.R.

A daily mail service is to be established on the Peace River. The service will be operated by the C.P.R. and will be used for the C.P.R.

Feeling is again aroused in Britain at the action of the House of Commons in rejecting the proposal to establish a customs house in Labrador, territory that has long been claimed by Newfoundland.

The Mounted Police are to establish communication between the post at the mouth of the Mackenzie River and Dawson City. Two attempts have failed, and a third is now to be made.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

London News has fallen. The news has been withdrawn from the part of the allied line from the Samble to the French frontier.

Paris: An official announcement states that the French Government has decided to cover positions. The losses on both sides have been heavy.

General: German forces are advancing over a line nearly one hundred miles long, spreading out in a formidable fan-wise movement, protected by swarms of cavalry soldiers. An allied fleet destroyed the Austrian destroyers at Cattaro.

General: Italian troops are concentrating on the Austrian frontier.

TEN YEARS AGO

In two special trains, 300 members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, and friends, left for Jasper after holding sessions at the University of Alberta.

It was in the week of the 4th of the British Petroleum Company's annual meeting. Sir Robert Grey, chairman of the Scottish Board of Agriculture, in Edmonton with the visiting committee, predicted that quarter cattle with heavy manes and double woolly coats will soon be grazing on the barren lands of the north.

Poems That Live

O, WERE MY LOVE

O, were my love you fair
My purple blossoms to the spring,
And I a flower to bloom in May,
How I would watch when it was born,
How I would watch it grow and bud,
But I would stand by its side,
When 'twould be its bloom's reward.

O, GIVE MY LOVE

O, give my love you rose red,
That grows upon the castle wall,
And I a lady of olden days,
How I would watch when it was born,
How I would watch it grow and bud,
But I would stand by its side,
When 'twould be its bloom's reward.

O, THERE, BEYOND EXPRESSION

I, I feel on beauty of the night,
Set out to seek the light of day,
Till I find you by Phoebe's side,
When 'twould be its bloom's reward.

Lloyd George, who now condemns the military leaders of Britain in the Great War, especially the dead ones, is the same Lloyd George who, going to hang the Kaiser,

The Passing Show

By J. S. COOPER

There are some disadvantages in being the owner of country property. One of them is the loss of money.

A month ago I received while at the coast a letter from an Edmonton man with a delicate wife, asking my advice. He was a young man, a month ago I received while at the coast a letter from an Edmonton man with a delicate wife, asking my advice.

Of course you've guessed what happened. I donned the wrong suit. I can't remember the address or even the name of the enquirer. If this comes to my notice, perhaps he'll forgive me and get in touch with me over the phone either at the Bulletin office or the Macdonald house.

The same apology and request applies to an esteemed and venerable correspondent in the southern part of the province who wrote telling me of some of the cruelties he had found in youth on clipper ships, and asking for light on the fate of some of them.

We've a budding Walt Mason in the family circle of readers, who has vision of his own on the wisdom of establishing business codes in the western provinces without first taking steps to increase the purchasing power of the farmer. He rattles it off thusly:

Old Cattle was a farmer man, using a section of mighty land. Up with the sunlit; to bed at dark—work meant success, his was made at the start.

Said he to me on a summer day, "Do you think this code is any good anyway?" He got down from his load and wiped his brow and I said "I dunno; let's look at it." "I need a fair price for my cattle," he said. "I'll waste no time; this very day I'll write my party—the U.F.A."

"I'll write to you," cried I with alarm. "You've got to remember that you're on a farm, and the government's busy down to a man framing a code for the business men. By a monstrous chance, prosperity reigns, but how, Lord knows?" No one except.

"Old Cattle," he gave a sickly smile. Said he, "I've been asked for quite awhile. I guess it's asking the boys too much to give much time to the likes of us. We're only here in writing the land, and the boys are for our fellow man. None needs a code so much as we on which to base progress."

Alas, it's true that many men think backwards first and have a tendency to create their laws with no regard to the facts. Too hard it is for average buyers to reach the goal of their desire. It isn't lack of "will to pay," it's lack of bills to pay their way. Too hard it is for the boys to pay their way for our fellow man. None needs a code so much as we on which to base progress.

Like the maiden in Wordsworth's poem "Approach with a vision of the brook and river meet." I approach the delicate task of touching the river of Germanic opinion, long extended to remark upon the Presidential election in Germany.

To be elected by 90 per cent of the vote is a staggering plurality. No one in Canada—never Mr. Lloyd George—has ever been elected by 90 per cent of the electorate if there were an election here next Sunday. Yet the surprise is that the German people have voted "Nein" to the 90 per cent who voted "Ja" for the German Leader.

Apparently Hitler and his Minister of National Enlightenment and Propaganda, Goebbels, expected a hundred per cent endorsement of the new plan which makes Hitler President, and the Kaiser and his family are expected to be deposed.

Germany's business is Germany's business. The vote of 30,000,000 in Germany has been an overwhelming vote of confidence to a man who knows whether he is going. Hitler announces that he will win over the opposing ten per cent. If he goes through, a Canadian politician in office would secretly pray that his opposition might never grow less than that figure.

Use Shower Baths On Hot Day

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

The best kind of bath for daily bathing is the shower. A good method is to first spray the body with warm water, soaping afterwards if desired, and washing again with cold water. It is always a good plan to take some physiotherapy exercises just prior to the shower, as this will increase the circulation and open the pores so that they will be better cleansed with running water.

A short bath is usually better than a prolonged one. After the bath the skin should be dried vigorously with a coarse towel. I am convinced that the ordinary tub bath in which one sits for an hour or more is weakening and should not be used too often.

The body does not seem to be weakened by bathing once a day or running water showers also have the advantage of being more sanitary than tub baths, as the soiled water runs off the body and a fresh stream of water descends on the skin. It is almost impossible to take too many shower baths.

During the warm weather it is very refreshing to take a cool shower. This may be done in the morning or at any time of the day. If you like to use warm water it is best to take the warm shower just before going to bed, when it acts as a sedative, relaxing the nervous system.

If you do not have a shower bath built into your home, you may secure an attachment at any drug store for about a dollar. This may be used as a hydramant to serve the purpose as well as a more expensive built-in arrangement.

A few years ago bathing was no doubt too infrequent, and even yet doctors will occasionally advise patients who believe it injurious to health to take a bath every day, but the common practice among us is to take one or two baths daily. Occasionally, I come across a patient with a bathing machine, who has been so weakened from the use of too much hot water which makes the tissues flabby, that he is unable to get up without the aid of a relaxing effect of the heat upon the blood vessels.

It is a good plan to take a shower bath at least once a day to cleanse the pores of the skin. If you are constantly using cold water in cold weather. Then there are the outer cells of the skin which are constantly scaling off and being replaced. By cleansing the skin regularly you can improve its texture.

A good skin is a social asset. It is an indication of good health. It is a social asset with clear skin. The personal cleanliness from frequent bathing is a social necessity. The only danger from taking too many baths is if you use hot tub baths, but it is almost impossible to take too many shower baths if you finish off with cold water.

COLMAN BACK ON SCREEN, AT CAPITOL

Has Lead Role in New Film of the "Bulldog Drummond" Series

Ronald Colman returned from a five-day vacation in Mexico and found back to the screen of the Capitol theatre, where "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" began a three-day showing today.

Ever since Colman made the earlier feature, "Bulldog Drummond," the film-going public has estimated a fond memory of the dashing Captain Hugh Drummond who he first portrayed in that picture.

Drummond also holds a fond place in Colman's heart, for it was in the creation of this character that he secured his greatest screen hit.

It was pleasant news to the star, therefore, when Joseph M. Schickel and Darryl F. Zanuck informed him that they had purchased "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" as his first starring vehicle under his new contract.

Mystery Man At Dreamland Monday

The most mysterious of all mysteries is the one which tells the tale of Edgar Allan Poe, the great mystery writer, who is the subject of the new picture, "Mystery of X," which opens Monday at the Dreamland theatre.

This is not a common picture but a treat of all mystery story creation. The most dire feeling of dread is instilled by keeping the picture secret. Horror, no matter what the variety, must be hidden. Its effect is felt but not to be seen. This is an unusual formula in the creation of a picture.

In the new murder-mystery film, the horror is known only to "X," whose shadow is seen passing the inner bodies of his victims. The search of the police is shown in the living picture, but even part of his shoulder, but even part of his face, is never seen. His effect is felt but not to be seen.

Helen Mack screen actress goes about her work so intensely that she forgets from 2 to 3 pounds on each picture.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

By Dan Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—The history of the motion picture, the clearer becomes the fact that a great majority of the public always has preferred clean movies.

Just two or three years ago, the first time, compiled by Motion Picture Herald, film trade magazine, "The History of the Motion Picture," was published.

Illustration of a man in a suit, possibly a detective or a character from a film, looking serious.

TWO FEATURE SHOW, RIALTO

Princess Offers Musical Romance

"Stand Up and Cheer!" one of the most elaborate motion pictures ever created by Hollywood, will make its appearance at the Princess theatre today.

Another of the most elements of the film offers are hundreds of dazzling girls, a vocal chorus of 500, and a company of players, 230 actors, 1,200 wild animals and five bands of music. Moreover, with the array of players, scenes and music, are five spectacular stunts, which are mentioned as being the most lavish and pretentious ever to be undertaken. Each of these stunts contains an authentic, though, all of which are headlined as the dance tunes of the nation for 1934.

The large cast assembled for this elaborate production includes such stellar names as: Warren Baxter, Madeline Evans, James Dunn, John Bates, Ralph Morgan, Janet Bruce, Shirley Temple, Arthur Hume, and Sigmund Romberg.

RUNYON STORY PLAYS STRAND

"Midnight Alibi," the picture based on the story by Damon Runyon, opens at the Strand theatre today.

The picture is a comedy-drama, which the almost overwhelming majority of the film-goers are relieved by a constant flow of light comedy action that is well timed to relieve the heavy drama.

An all star cast headed by Aline MacMahon, Ann Dvorak, and Glenda Farrell, with Preston Foster has the leading masculine role. His benchman is Louis Toback, a dumb crook who lines up in the comedy quartette with Glenda Farrell and Rudy Doolittle. Two Benos divorces out for Janey then she finds and Evans McHugh, her chauffeur, over whose love they are constantly bickering.

Empress Film Has Big Cast

Eighteen months ago the world-famous team of Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell played the picture "The Sign of the Cross." Today, after an interlude marked by a flood of production, the pair are reunited in "The Sign of the Cross," which is the story of a young girl who is kidnapped and sold into slavery.

Along the Boulevard, the picture is a comedy-drama, which the almost overwhelming majority of the film-goers are relieved by a constant flow of light comedy action that is well timed to relieve the heavy drama.

Bank Deposits Show Increase

OTTAWA, Aug. 25.—Demand deposits held by Canadian chartered banks at the close of last month were more than $18,000,000 higher than at the end of June. The bank statement of finance shows that the figure of $480,245,400 for demand deposits at the end of June had jumped to $504,254,418 by the 31st of July.

Savings deposits were down more than $4,000,000 from the June figure, while deposits held by the banks outside Canada dropped nearly $14,000,000.

Fight Expert Tells Court How She Hit

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Something in the role of an expert, as well as eye witness, S. P. Tamara, fight promoter, described in court how Mrs. B. Benton Wilson, wife of a prominent yachtsman, slapped Nina Cavalieri, stage and movie actress, on a downtown street last June.

"She gave me a good left hook right in the eye," Tamara testified in trial of Miss Cavalieri's $100,000 damage suit against Mrs. Wilson, who in her answer, admitted the slapping.

The actress charged Mrs. Wilson slapped her under the mistaken impression that she, Miss Cavalieri, was a prostitute.

Monday in August, in England the general holiday. It comes at the end of the summer season, and last there will be unful Christmas. As I think, I have previously mentioned that the day is not only the only holiday in the world that is not in some sense also a day of mourning for a dead king. It was invented purely and simply to give the masses of the people a day of rest and recreation. The best time of the year for outdoor recreation has been the greatest "August Monday" known from a statistical standpoint. Despite the depression, it was the most popular day of the year for the last several years.

Woman Sues Man
She Thought Dead

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.
Karlson, 37, of 1000 S. Van Ness, San Francisco, today filed a $100,000 lawsuit against a man he believed was dead.

"Reluctantly, I have come to the conclusion," he added, "that we have got to have a cash benefit somewhere for persons thrown involuntarily out of work. Unemployment insurance must be fitted into

Other beloved Darrell J. Zaner had died in the San Francisco fire. And the $200 he had been given on a promissory note just a year before, she checked off.

The MOOSE

IS FOUND IN THE WOODED AREAS OF NORTHERN NORTH AMERICA, AS FAR SOUTH AS MAINE, MINNESOTA, AND WYOMING. TO THE NORTHERN INDIANS IT HAS SERVED AS THE STAFF OF LIFE FOR CENTURIES... FURNISHING BOTH MEAT AND HIDES.

BESIDES EATING TWIGS AND LEAVES FROM HARDWOOD TREES, THE MOOSE ALSO IS FOND OF WATER PLANTS, AND FREQUENTLY DISAPPEARS COMPLETELY UNDER WATER IN SEARCH OF THEM.

THE ANTLERS OF FIGHTING MOOSE SOMETIMES BECOME LOCKED, AND BOTH BATTLERS DIE A LINGERING DEATH.

MOOSE HUNTERS PAY CANADA ABOUT TWO MILLIONS OF DOLLARS YEARLY FOR LICENSES, RAILROAD FARES, SUPPLIES, ETC.

FOSSIL BONES SHOW THAT IN PREHISTORIC TIMES, A MOOSE WITH ENORMOUS ANTLERS RANGED FAR INTO THE UNITED STATES.

MANY A BULL MOOSE HAS BEEN LURED TO ITS DEATH BY HUNTERS WHO, WITH BIRCH BARK TRUMPETS, IMITATE THE CALLS OF THE COW MOOSE.

THE BULLS ARE THE TALLEST OF ALL AMERICAN LAND MAMMALS, AND SOMETIMES WEIGH THREE-FOURTHS OF A TON.
